In order to be admitted as a resident to an AFCH an individual must not have stage 3 or 4 pressure sores. An individual with a stage 2 pressure sore may be admitted only if the individual is under the care of a nurse pursuant to a plan of care issued by a health care provider.

58A-14.0061(1)(i), F.A.C.

Interpretive Guideline

Pressure sore means a breakdown in skin integrity caused by immobility and prolonged pressure. The 4 stages of pressure sores can be identified as follows: stage 1- a nonblanching macule that may appear red or violet: stage 2- a skin breakdown as far as the dermis: stage 3- a skin breakdown into the subcutaneous tissue: stage 4 - penetrate bone, muscle or the joint.

Care for a stage 2 pressure sore is a nursing service, and the following criteria must be met.

1. The resident does not exceed the admission and continued residency standards.
2. If provided or arranged for by the AFCH provider, care for a stage 2 pressure sore must be:
 - a. Authorized by a health care provider's order;
 - b. Medically necessary and reasonable for treatment of the resident's condition;
 - c. Properly provided pursuant to chapter 464, F.S., and the prevailing standard or practice in the nursing community;

The AFCH provider shall provide general supervision Twenty-four (24) hours per day. General supervision means the provider or designee is aware of the resident ' s whereabouts and well-being while the resident is on the premises of the AFCH. A resident may be left without supervision in an AFCH for up to 2 hours in a 24 hour period if his or her health care provider submits written certification that doing so will not compromise the resident ' s health, safety, security or well-being.

The provider must be accessible by telephone or pager or other appropriate means so that the resident is able to communicate with him or her during the period that the resident is left without supervision in the AFCH.

Regulation Definition

At the time of license application, prior to license renewal, and prior to an increase in capacity, the provider shall request the local authority having jurisdiction over fire safety to inspect the home for compliance with local codes and ordinances and the minimum standards of this rule.

58A-14.0091(1)(b), F.A.C.

Interpretive Guideline

The AFCH shall have requested the fire inspector having jurisdiction to inspect the home for compliance with local codes and ordinances. Fire safety inspections shall be conducted every 365 days, and prior to a capacity increase.

The inspection may be made by an employee of the agency who has a certification in fire safety, if the local authority indicates in writing that there is no inspector available to conduct an inspection.

Only the local fire authority shall give approval for multi-storied frame buildings.

Regulation Definition

The provider shall at all times maintain first aid and emergency supplies including a 3-day supply of non-perishable food based on the number of residents and household members currently residing in the home, and 2 gallons of drinking water per current resident and household member.

58A-14.0091(2)(b), F.A.C.

Interpretive Guideline

All non-perishable food on the premises at time of survey should be included in the calculation of the 3-day supply of fruits, vegetables, protein, grain, non-perishable milk sources. Non-perishables are dry or canned goods that do not require refrigeration.

Food items may not be counted twice in determining if the home meets this requirement. That is, if the number of canned beans is applied toward the required supply of protein, it may not be also applied toward the required supply of vegetables.

The home must maintain at least 2 gallons of drinking water per current resident and household member. The bottled water must be dated and changed at least every six months.

Having a backup generator and a propane gas source does not exempt the home from having a 3-day supply of non-perishable foods.

The 3-day supply is three days forward from the survey and does not include the survey day.

Each AFCH must determine the minimal food needs for the individuals to be served for 3 days:
